AVIGILON™

Home should be a safe place

Create a more secure and convenient living experience
for your residents

Boost security, property values and resident satisfaction

Unlock a new level of security and convenience for your residents, guests and visitors with a mobile-first access control solution that combines modern aesthetics with functionality. From main entrances to mail rooms, fitness centers to parking garages and individual residences, Avigilon Alta helps property owners create a safer environment by controlling every space from a single interface.

Help protect people, property and spaces

Apartment complexes, condo buildings and gated communities share similar safety and security challenges – spaces are mixed between private and shared, and there's a constant flow of residents, visitors and service providers. This dynamic environment requires a flexible, yet robust approach to security that balances convenience with peace of mind.

Convenient access without sacrificing security

Main entrances can be challenging for multifamily properties, balancing the need to secure the property while still making it easy to provide access to guests and authorized visitors.

Fortunately, the Avigilon Video Intercom Reader Pro solves these challenges – visitors can use the intelligent voice interface to call the person they're visiting directly, or scan a QR code to view a virtual directory. Residents can take advantage of two-way audio and live video to visually verify and communicate with guests and grant access from their mobile app.

For common areas within the property like pools, fitness centers and mail rooms, an Avigilon Smart Keypad reader enables pincode access for authorized non-residents like delivery personnel or maintenance and repair staff.

“ We chose an integrated video security and access control solution because it addresses the housing community's unique requirements.

– Gregory Keeling, CEO at New York Security Solutions, Inc

Credentials for every resident

It can be difficult for property managers to find a balance for access methods to satisfy everyone, from the most tech-savvy residents to the more traditional ones. Avigilon Alta supports a wide range of credential methods to make sure residents can access their homes how they want to, including:

-  Touchless mobile access
-  Physical keycards and fobs
-  Pincodes
-  License plate credentials
-  Cloud keys for visitor access

Additionally, individual units can be secured with wireless locks, providing an attractive option to bring access control to units without the need to individually wire each door.

For a touchless approach, Alta Access supports Wave to Unlock for simple access for residents that might have their hands full with groceries, or bringing kids home from school. Residents can also leverage mobile Guest Passes to let a family member or repair technician access their unit – a much more secure method than leaving a key under the mat.

Complete security for every space

Avigilon Alta can seamlessly connect to your existing security systems – cameras, sensors and doors – so you can monitor everything remotely. Get instant alerts directly to your phone about suspicious activity and easily search video recordings of events to find out exactly what happened. Plus, Avigilon Alta Access integrates with 100+ third party platforms through our App marketplace, expanding your security system’s capabilities with visitor management, mailroom features and more in a few clicks. Alta can handle a wide range of residential environments, including:

Gated communities

Imagine hurrying to get home just to wait at the gate. Alta Video and Access can auto-open gates for authorized vehicles to reduce wait times and improve community satisfaction.

Apartment complexes

Control access to individual units, elevators and parking lots. Use our video intercom, or integrate with visitor management platforms for seamless guest check-in.

Condominiums

Condos often have shared amenities like pools, fitness centers or spas. Alta can help control access to these areas, preventing unauthorized use and deterring vandalism or theft.

Unlock a safer, connected future for your properties

By combining advanced technology with intuitive design, Avigilon Alta delivers a future-proof solution that enhances peace of mind for residents and simplifies management for property owners. From seamless entry to personalized access options, invest in a modern access control system that elevates the entire resident experience to help create a safer, more connected, and ultimately, more enjoyable living environment.
